

The Piedmont Chapter Presents: Energy 2020 What is it and Why is it Important

September 14th, 2016 – Greensboro, NC

Special Guest
Derek DiGiacomo- SCTE National
Senior Director Information Systems and Energy Management Program

Do you have an Energy Savings Plan?

Rising energy costs are a reality and something every business will have to address.

Understanding ways to better manage those costs is vital to continued profitability.

Through standards, best practices and thought leadership efforts, the SCTE can help organizations control their costs and boost efficiencies.

Piedmont Members Can Get Involved - Find an area relevant to your organization, recommend new topics, and join the initiative to help shape future cable telecommunications technologies. Areas such as:

- | | |
|-------------------------|-----------------|
| Conservation | Monitoring |
| Efficiency | Modeling |
| Environmental | Graphics |
| Power System Interfaces | Measurements |
| Density | Energy Controls |
| Operations | Recycling |
| Facilities | |

The SCTE is developing standards and recommended practices in several key areas to improve the application of environmentally friendly and sustainable procedures and products, to create solutions that lower overall costs and increase overall performance.

New markets have opened focusing on sustainable and energy efficient cable products and services.
